##Recreate a Plot

```
high_countries <- filter(medals, Team == "United States" | Team == "Soviet Union", Medal == "Gold", Year > 1949, Year < 1990)

high_countries <- high_countries %>% distinct(Event, Year, .keep_all = TRUE)

ggplot(high_countries, aes(x = Year, fill = Team))+
  geom_bar()+
  scale_x_continuous(breaks = c(1952, 1956, 1960, 1964, 1968, 1972, 1976, 1980, 1984, 1988))+
  ggtitle("Gold Medals in Olympic Games between 1950 and 1989")

The years 1980 and 1984 stand out to me because of the lopsided number of medals won by each country. In 1980, the Soviet Union hosted the Olympics and the United States hosted it in 1984. The Soviets won the majority of the medals in 1980 and the United States won the majority in 1984. This could be due to the Soviet-Afghan war which led the US to protest the Olympics when hosted by the Soviets and the USSR to boycott the Olympics when it was hosted by the United States.

##Open Ended Question

top10 <- filter(medals, Team == "United States" | Team == "China" | Team == "Great Britain" | Team == "Italy" | Team == "Hungary" | Team == "Sweden" | Team == "Australia" | Team == "France" | Team == "Soviet Union" | Team == "Germany")

ggplot(top10, aes(x = as.factor(Team), y = Height, fill = Team)) +
  geom_boxplot()
```

```
Warning: Removed 4015 rows containing non-finite values (stat_boxplot).

The graph above displays the 10 countries with the most gold medals. China is a major outlier as their height is lower than the other countries. The US seems to have the greatest variability, along with the Soviet Union, because of the large amount of athletes they had in the Olympics compared to other countries. We can also see that most of the medians of height are around the same for countries with the top 10 medals.
